DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 1-10, 12-21, 35-38, and 40-43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

As noted in the Office action of 14 February 2003, no teaching is provided in the specification of an organic semiconductor layer that would meet the claim limitation of an organic molecule forming a monolayer, which has a sensing end group, a conjugated segment, and an attaching end group, that can function as a channel layer for a transistor. The specification gives various examples of known groups that might function in general as an end group, or a conjugated segment, or an attaching end group, but no teaching is provided to explain how to make a single specific molecule having the necessary groups, that will function as a semiconductor, and that can be formed as a monolayer. Organic chemistry is an unpredictable art, and undue experimentation would be required to form a device as claimed based on the specification in this case. Also, the transistor art is unpredictable, and the specification does not teach any specific material meeting the claim limitations that exhibits transistor action.

Conclusion

Applicant argues with respect to the rejection under 35 U.S.C. 112 that one skilled in the art could, based on for example the patent of Ogawa, '109, make a transistor utilizing organic monolayer films. Examiner agrees, because it appears that the Ogawa reference teaches how to make a device having each element of the Ogawa claims. However, the Ogawa monolayer does not meet the limitations of the claims pending in this application. For example, there are no "sensing" end groups in the Ogawa molecule. And Applicant's specification does not teach how to modify the Ogawa material to remedy the defect. Because the chemical art is unpredictable, one cannot know whether a particular compound can be made without having a specific recipe or set of instructions to make that compound. Merely imaging a chemical structure is not sufficient. Also, one cannot know whether a particular material can be formed as a monolayer without actually forming the monolayer. And one cannot know whether a particular material can provide for transistor action, without actually making a transistor and measuring the I-V characteristic. Applicant's specification does not teach any of these things.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
